THE WASHINGTON SOROSIS. The Sisters Hold an Open Session and Entertain Their Friends.

The young lady members of the P. E. O. sorosis of this city were "at home" to their friends last evening after their annually charming fashion. The reception was held at No. 1434 Q street, the residence of Gen. Ellis Spear, whose daughter Julia is president of the society. The long parlors were admirably adapted to such an occasion and were kept filled from 8 o'clock until after midnight. An orchestra gave forth soft music from a hidden corner, and sometimes falling into waltz strains set the folks to swaying with anticipation. A bountiful supper table was set in the third parlor.

This society is composed exclusively of ladies. The objects are mental and literary improvement, and the sight of a man is strictly prohibited during the solemn conclaves of the order, which always sits in executive session, with the single exception of such an occasion once a year as that which gave enjoyment to two or three hundred "outsiders" last evening. The meetings take place once a fortnight, on Tuesday night from 7:30 to 9:45. These hours are observed with a scrupulous rigidity that is partly inspired by the necessity of the girl members seeing each other home, since male escorts are totally out of the question. During this time there are books read aloud and discussed, there is a symposium of literary chit-chat, and occa-sionally there are delvings into the depths of history, science or philosophy. At present the membership is "somewhere between twenty-three and twenty-five," as one of the fair wise ones expressed it last night, and therefore it cannot be very far from a couple of dozen. It is one of the customs of the sorosis to attend in a body the marriage of any member who may forget the way to light and fame sufficiently to allow herself to be led to the altar. They afterward go to the train and with solemn grace and dignity throw rice at the misguided but happy member. There are two now in the society who have been thus honored with the rites of the order and they are quite as enthusiastic as ever.

A Word That Was Omitted.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: In your issue of the 13th appears a synopsis of the lecture delivered on the 12th instant by Bishop Keane at the Catholic university, in his review of Herbert Spencer, in which he is made to say that "the fact that a thing can or cannot be conceived in the first sense of the word is no argument for or against its exist-ence, as I can form perfectly in my mind the image of a Centaur or a Sphinx, which do not exist, and I can possibly do so of gravitation, of force, of truth or of honor, all of which are realities about which I have clear ideas and which I know perfectly well how to distinguish from anything else," when in reality by the unintentional omission of the word "not" before the word "possibly," the real meaning and climax of the sentence is totally lost. M.V.B.

Not a Bad Idea.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: After reading the article in your paper o resterday, "Lafayette Monument-Solving the Knotty Problem of its Location", an idea occurred to me. George has been doing picket duty in the direction of Georgetown for many years; Andrew has been stationed at headquarters, opposite the White House, for many years also, and according to military rule they should be relieved. Now why not bring George in, taking Andrew's place, and send Andrew to the picket post; then George and Lafayette could be together in Lafayette square. This seems to me very appropriate and would meet the hearty approval of both heroes, had they any say in the matter, and I believe would "solve the knotty problem" and give general satisfaction. The Symphony Concert. The second concert of the Boston symphony orchestra's series was given last evening in Music hall before a very large audience. The program was distinctively a modern onethree of the five composers represented upon it are living-and it was one of rare and sustained interest and vigorous contrast; further-more it offered two interesting novelties in Grieg's recently published suite to "Peer Gynt" and the first movement of Brahm's violin concerto in D, a very grateful substitute for the Mendelssohn, already three times heard here this winter. The concerto was played by Mr. Franz Kneisel with a dignity and nobility of style that were in fullest accord with the spirit of the composition; it is a work of the significance and importance to be expected from the greatest of living composers and modeled after the loftiest ideals of that classical spirit of which Brahm's is the greatest and almost the last remaining conservator. The "Peer Gynt" suite is as far as possible from this in con ception. It is wholly descriptive in its purose, fantastically and even sensationally so.

Of course it gives occasion for many striking and original effects, which Mr. Nikitsh was not slow to take the fullest advantage of. One that showed in an almost unexampled fashion the powers of the orchestra was the marvelous pianissimo at the close of the second movement. The almost comic picture of the imps chasing Peer Gynt, with its eccen-tricities of rhythm and orchestration, appealed to the audience, so—it must have been to the sense of humor rather than to the musical instinct—that a repetition of it was insisted upon. The Schumann symphony, which closed the concert, brought into play some of the most remarkable attributes of Mr. Nikisch's conducting; it was read in a style that gave the fullest exposition to the composer's idea by the elaboration and contrast given to every detail of the work, the delightful and characteristic setting forth of its rhythmic niceties and the warmth and affluence of tonal beauty in which the whole was clothed.

Fruit Growers' Convention Declare for Chicago.

The following dispatch was received this morning, dated Hammond, La., February 13: Growers Convention in session at Hammond, unanimously adopted by a rising vote amidst the greatest enthusiasm: Resolved by the Interstate Farmers and Fruit Growers Convention at Hammond, La., that we favor the holding of the world's exposition at the city of Chicago. First, because it is the most central city of large size on the continent; second, because if held at Chicago it will do more to aid in developing the resources of the whole country than if held in New York.

The resolution was eloquently presented by Prof. L. A. Knapp of Lake Charles, La.

A PHOTOGRAPHIC HISTORY. How the Progress of Work on Library Building is Recorded.

A graphic history of the new library building is being prepared and when it is completed it will be one of the most unique narratives of a building that has ever been written. The pencil used is the rays of the sun and the paper is the sensitized plate of a photographic camera. Every ten days from the top of the building occupied by Architect Pelz and his force of draughtsmen one of the employes directs a camera upon the great hole which has been scooped out in the square just east of the Capitol grounds. Every detail of the condition of the work, the height of the walls, the piles of material on hand is accurately impressed upon the plate. The photographs are filed away properly labeled and can be produced if any question arises as to what was done or was not done at any stage of the work. If, for instance, a contractor claims that he had certain material on the ground at a certain date he can be confronted with a photograph and asked to point out where the material was located. The photographs are not taken for this purpose exclusively. They are found to be a valuable supplement to the written record kept by the assistants of Mr. Bernard R. Green, who is in charge of the work of construction under th direction of Gen. Casey. This a rather novel use of the photographic camera and the photographs taken will be of great interest in

Certainly; Why Not?

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: We clerks are in favor of applying the "eighthours-a-day" law to the government departments in this city, as suggested by the smart "trans-Missouri statesman" in yesterday's STAR, providing the law is also made to apply to the Congress of the United States. Let the act read-"Be it enacted, &c., that from and after the passage of this act eight hours shall constitute a day's work in the various branches of the government, including the Senate and House of Representatives; that the employes, together with the Senators and Representatives shall commence work at 8 o'clock a.m. and cease work at 4 o'clock p.m. each secular day of the week, with an allowance of one-half hour for lunch from 12:30 to 1 o'clock p.m.; that each person thus employed shall be allowed thirty days' annual leave and thirty days' sick leave with pay, absence at any time during the year beyond the sixty days aforementioned to be deducted pro rata from their pay." With-out the amendment including the solons of the nation the law would be an "unjust discrimination" and subject to the consideration of the interstate commerce commission. DEPARTMENT CLERK.

After a very enjoyable program of recitations and vocal and instrumental music refreshments were served. The floor was then cleared for dancing, which was kept up till early morning to Prof. Caldwell's music.

A Fellow Feeling.

One hundred and twelve men wearing plaid suits and guarded by five officers were digging in Kentucky avenue yesterday when a young colored man named Geo. Johnson came along. He had just been released from jail and stopped to look at the laboring work house gang, when one of them, John Johnson, walked over and spoke to him. George treated to cigarettes and then took a flask of gin from his pocket. John reached out for the bottle and swallowed a large-sized dram before an officer could interfere. C. S. Prather, one of the guards, caught George after a long chase and locked him up. When the case was called in the Police Court this morning there was some trouble finding a law to punish the sympa-thetic George. The law agaidst aiding pris-oners to escape was mentioned, and Mr. Dumont said that the liquor was calculated to make the prisoner "get up and get."
"And if he drank enough of it," added the Judge, "it was calculated to make him get The prisoner told the judge his wife got him out of jail yesterday; that she gave him 5 cents and he bought some gin. "Where did your wife get the money?" asked Judge Miller. "She worked for it," was the prisoner's reply.

"And you bought gin with the first 5 cents you got after getting out of jail," said the I got the gin to take when I got home." Judge Miller told the defendant that in the future he had better be more careful and keep said he would take his personal bonds. Transfers of Real Estate. Deeds in fee have been filed as follows: E. A. Keyser to S. C. The senate investigation committee which is working on the charges of bribery in the North Dakota republican state convention, the election of state officers and election of United States Senators had but one witness before it yesterday, he being E. P. Wells of Jamestown. Senator Casey's home. Wells was an ardent supporter of Casey, and, it is claimed, was on inside. However this may be, it is rumored that his testimony was simply to the effect that he knew nothing of the use of money in Senator Casey's election. Representative Stadieman, whose election, it was claimed, was brought about by the use of Louisiana lottery money, is looking for the Pioneer-Press correspondent and says he will know who gave him the information or the correspondent will know some-thing about physical persuasion. It is pretty well understood that the information came from certain state officers, and the bitterness over some of the statements is becoming intensified daily. The attorney general volunteered an opinion to the senate that its committee of investigation had no power to summon witnesses, and the senate returned it to him with thanks. He was in the senate chamber at the time and got the full benefit of the slap. Pete McCoy of Boston and Charles Gleason

PREPARE FOR SPRING

Now is the time to attend to your personal condition in preparation for the change to spring season. If you have not "wintered well," if you are tired out from overwork, if your blood has become impure from close confinement in badly ventilated offices or shops, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. It will purify and vitalize your blood, create a good appetite and give your whole system tone and strength

HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA

"For a first-class spring medicine my wife and I think very highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla. We both took it last spring. It did us a great deal of good and we felt better through the hot weather than ever before. It cured my wife of sick headache, from which she has suffered a great deal, and relieved me of a dizzy, tired feeling. I think every one ought to take something to purify the blood before the hot weather comes on, and we shall certainly take Hood's Sarsapa rilla this spring." J. H. PEARCE, Supt. Granite Bailway Co., Concord, N.H.

PURIFIES THE BLOOD "This is to certify that I have used Hood's Sarsaparills in my family for some time past and have found it to be a good blood purifier. It has been of great benefit as recommended and I have no hesitation in recommending it to all who are in want of any medi-cine of the kind." ROBERT A. SMITH, Justice of N. I wish to make a few statements and I hope you will read on and make a note of what I have to say, as you will find that you will soon have occasion to use me: I know that people are often deceived by bold and unscrupulous statements through the press.
